Avant Electronics – REACH (Registration, Evaluation, Authorization, and Restriction of Chemicals) Compliance Statement

Avant Electronics specialise in sourcing hard to find and obsolete electronic components from a global network of suppliers for manufacturers throughout the UK. We have built upon company values to help deliver quality products and a reliable service for obsolete and allocated component requirements.

We are not a manufacturer of components, nor do we import or distribute chemicals of any description. Our electronic components are sourced within our global supplier network. As such, it is at times impossible to supply the physical or chemical composition of some components including:

- Components that have been discontinued
- Components originating from manufacturers that no longer exist
- Components we have not previously sourced

We work closely with our Suppliers, reviewing all electronic components to the best of our ability to ensure they adhere to industry standards, but it is not always possible to guarantee compliance on all items. In these instances, it is our policy to locate and offer suitable alternatives.

Our Buyers continue to own the responsibility of providing detailed specifications for all components ordered from Avant Electronics and ensuring their suitability for each application and end use product.

Yours sincerely

J. Tyler
